

I don't understand how you can continuously heap more and more requirements on a registrant, years after their offense. Often it is a one time, youthful offense. With these new proposals, you heap more punishment not only the offender, but on their wives, husbands, children, brothers, sisters, friends, parents, employers, and everybody else they come in contact with. But I know, its all about the 2 million dollars the State might miss out on. No matter if this an unjust law and unconstitutional. We must have our money. AWA is already being contested in several states as unconstitutional, as I am sure it will be here. Some states have flat refused to enact it. In the long run if enacted, it will cost much more per year to regulate than the 2 million a year blackmail money earned. Please use a little common sense and worry about the real pedophiles, and let the other 90% of RSOs who have served their punishment and did their time finally get on with their lives and earn a living and become part of society again. Eric Eads